F.A.Q.

When is the best time to book a maternity session?
I suggest having the session take place about 6-8 weeks before your due date. Bellies are usually just the right size for capturing at this time.

Do you do more dramatic maternity photos?
Are you looking for something a bit more artistic? We love shooting the pregnant body in implied nudes. Celebrate this time in your life, you are beautiful and we want to show that in your photographs.

What to Wear?

Before your session wear loose fitting clothing and avoid elastic, such as underwear or a bra, on the day of their shoot. This will prevent strap marks and lines from appearing. I will provide a selection of draping materials.

Wear anything you feel comfortable in and LOVE. Avoid patterns, stripes, and plaids unless you love them and they are a true representation of your personality.

I recommend solid colors (white, black, brown, gray). Avoid bright pink and yellow, they don't usually turn out great.

Pants - jeans and black yoga pants work very well. Bring jeans that will have a snug fit. we won't zip or button them, just fold them down. Bring any pretty scarves or wraps you have also.

Look for anything clingy, not necessarily tight, fabrics with a bit of stretch. Pregnant women have beautiful curves and we want to show that off!!
